

Cross section of elevated pipeline

Above-ground supports, located wherever the soil along the route contained too much ice for burial, suspend the pipeline and are supposed to allow for movement to accommodate expansion and contraction of the pipe or possible seismic disturbance.

